OTHER PROVISIONS REGARDING SERVICES

Each use by you of the Service regulated in this document constitutes a separate contract, and its current content - in the form of these Terms - is available on the Website.

It is prohibited to provide unlawful content through our Services.

The contract is concluded in English, for the time and purpose of providing the Service. The contract shall be governed by Polish law, with the reservation of the next paragraph.

The choice of Polish law for the contract concluded under the Terms with a Consumer shall not waive or limit your Consumer rights granted to you under mandatory provisions of law applicable to you in situations where there is no choice of law. This means, in particular, that if national regulations applicable to you as a Consumer provide for protection that is broader than that provided for under these Terms or Polish law, such broader protection shall apply.

None of the provisions of these Terms exclude or in any way limit your rights as a Consumer resulting from the provisions of law.

If you are a natural person who concludes or takes steps to conclude the contract under the Terms, that is in direct connection with your business activity, you shall be treated as a Consumer and shall be entitled to the same rights as those enjoyed by Consumers, if the contract is not of a professional nature for you. The preceding sentence shall not apply to the provision in this section regarding the effect of the choice of law on Consumer rights .

Subject to the previous provision, in the event of a possible dispute with a user who is not a Consumer, the competent court shall be the one having jurisdiction over our registered office;
